

Anisotropic, adaptive finite elements will be presented for academic and industrial applications. The error estimator corresponding to space discretization with continuous, piecewise linear finite elements will be derived for a diffusion problem. The error estimator corresponding to time discretization with an order two scheme will be derived for the unsteady, incompressible Navier-Stokes equations. An industrial application pertaining to aluminum electrolysis will also be presented.